

Websites With Lessons Embedding Technologies

LearnZillion is a free learning site that provides Common Core-aligned lessons with video explanations, assessments, and progress reporting. The site offers more than two thousand teacher-created lessons.

Visit <http://learnzillion.com> to access the site.

Open Tapestry is a website that helps teachers select, organize, and share resources. Users can alter the content to meet their students' needs and add information to the site.

Visit www.opentapestry.com to access the site.

PowerMyLearning is a web platform with more than one thousand digital learning activities. This free teacher resource provides an opportunity for educators to design their own playlist of activities and contribute information to the site.

Visit <http://powermylearning.org> to access the site.

Share My Lesson is an online portal of more than 250,000 digital learning resources reviewed and created by two hundred teachers.

Visit www.sharemylesson.com to access the site.

EdTechTeacher offers a variety of assignments under their "Tools for Teachers" tab that include digital projects.

Visit www.edtechteacher.org/index.php/teaching-technology/presentation-multimedia/lesson-plans to access the site.

University of South Florida shows examples of digital projects with varying levels of technology integration.

Visit <http://fcit.usf.edu/matrix/gradelevel.php> to access the site.

appoLearning is a website that ranks education apps by experts.

Visit www.appolearning.com/?cg=4 to access the site.